Death of Robt. Woods, Jr.

After an illness of several months, from which he was thought to be recovering, Robert E. Woods, Jr., seven years old, died yesterday just before noon in the infirmary at Lebanon. His death was sudden, as his father had left him only a short time before to go to church, telling assured that the boy was recovering and out of danger. He was taken ill with scarlet fever in February and complications arising, his wife said, caused his death at Lebanon. He seemed to improve after a few weeks there under the care of his mother and the nurse. Mr. Woods spent one or two days every week with him, and yesterday left him for a short time, his condition showing a much improvement.

The body will be brought to Louisville to-day and the funeral will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow from the family residence, 2109 Brook street. The dead boy was an unusually bright, attractive child who was a favorite with all who knew him. He was handsome, manly and possessed the qualities which make a child attractive to old as well as young. Monday's Courier-Journal.

Robert E. Woods, Sr., was born and reared in this city, and is well known here.

Starting Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr King's New Discovery Consumption Conga and Cold to be a credit. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentleville, Va., serves as evidence. He writes: "I had bronchitis for three years and doctors, all the time, without being helped. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles quickly cured me. Equally effective in curing all lung and throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip. Guaranteed by Short & Haynes, Drugists. Trifl bottles free, regular sizes 50c, and $1.00.

Keep Your Money at Home.

When you get a catalogue from a big mail order house, just look and see what they pay for postage. Also look and see how their terms of credit are in case you don't have the ready cash: how much they will subscribe toward keeping up the sidewalk of your town. Just write and see what they will give to assist the poor in your community. After you have done this and received their reply, go to your home merchants, get their price, deduct the cost of transportation of the goods you are thinking of buying of the mail order house, and see if it is not more to your advantage to trade at home.—Glenn's Graphic.

Breckenridge, Ky., June 21.—(Special)—Hiram Winchel, farmer who resides near town, on the Leitchfield road, had the misfortune to break his right leg last Saturday afternoon. The injured man was set by Drs. A. M. and J. E. Ringgold, and he is doing as well as could be expected. The accident occurred in breaking ground for a log cabin. It struck and rolled down the skids, catching Mr. Winchel's leg underneath. His son, who was assisting him, escaped uninjured.

HARPOLE-MOORMAN.

The marriage of Mr. Joseph Van Dorn Harpole of Louisville, to Miss Mary Moorman, of this city, will come news of a pleasant nature to their many friends and acquaintances. They will be wedded this evening at 6 o'clock in Louisville. The ceremony will be performed at the Baptist church at Third and St. Catherine streets by Rev. T. T. Eaton, the pastor. The affair will be quiet and will be solemnized in the presence of a few friends and relatives.

Mr. Harpole is foreman of the Big Four railroad shops in Louisville and is a rising young man in his vocation. He went to Louisville last April from this city, where he had a position with the L. & N. S. L. railroad shops for about ten years.

Mr. and Mrs. Harpole's bridal tour will include a trip to Benton Harbor, Michigan. They will reside in Louisville.

Well Worth Seeing.

One of the most interesting exhibits among the many of all kinds at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis is that of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company of repeating rifles and shotguns and a variety of ammunition. The exhibit was in its grandeur and was opened on the first day of the fair, a fact that clearly illustrates the enterprise and up-to-date methods of the company behind it. It is the aim of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company to show at their exhibit the high development which they reached in the making of guns and ammunition, and one needs only to see the exhibit to realize how near to perfection that development has come. There can be seen the new automatic repeating rifle, all kinds of shotguns, the modern smokeless powder shotgun shells and rifle cartridges; in fact everything that can interest the sportsmen hunting and trap and target shooting. Don't fail to see the exhibit at the Manufacturers and Fish and Game Buildings. It is well worth seeing.

SHAW'S OPINION OF THE FAIR.

St. Louis, June 18.—After twice changing the time set for the dedication of the Philippine reservation the exercises were held to-day. The arrival of Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, who reviewed the parade from the speaker's stand, was the chief factor in determining the authorities to hold the ceremonies to-day, despite the unfavorable weather. Addresses were made by Dr. W. P. Wilson, chairman of the Philippine Exposition Board; Col. Clarence H. L. Edwards, U. S. A., chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, and President Francis.

At the conclusion of his visit to the fair Secretary Shaw concluded:

"It is unnecessary for me to say that the Louisiana Purchase Exposition is the greatest show on earth, or that was ever produced, or that will ever be attempted. The work that has been done is more than prodigious. Twelve hundred acres of timber land have been graded, sewered, piped, wired and improved to equal a city of 250,000 inhabitants, and in two years. One can see the exhibits in a day or two; but no one can see the exhibits at the exposition in thirty days. A father of a boy bright can afford to send him simply to study any one of at least 1,000 exhibits. It would probably be better for the boy to study any one of the thousand than to attempt to study the thousand."

"I wish every high school in the United States could see the exposition, and if every high school in the United States would see the exposition it would be the best investment the Government has made since it purchased the Territory

H. DeH. MOORMAN INTERVIEWED.

H. Dell Moorman, of Hardinsburg, Ky., who is a Major on Gen. Bennett H. Young's staff, reached Louisville last night on the way home from the Nashville reunion of Confederate Veterans. He stopped at Seabach's Hotel. Major Moorman is the youngest man on Col. Young's staff, and has the distinction of being one of the few men not Confederate soldiers appointed on the staff of a division commander. In speaking of the choice of Louisville for the next reunion, Maj. Moorman said last night:

"There was all the time a sentiment for Louisville stronger than that for any other city, and when Col. Young made his speech and Miss Ewell followed it with the song, 'My Old Kentucky Home,' there was nothing else to it. The convention was taken off its feet, and Louisville, which had been the preference before, secured the unanimous expression of the veterans. Col. Young, commanding the Kentucky division, was cheered whenever he appeared, and was frequently called upon for speeches when the occasion was entirely informal. Kentucky has reason to be proud of the reception which she received in Nashville."—Saturday's Courier-Journal.

Wakeful?

Sleeplessness Is a Sign of Nerve Trouble and Should Be Looked To.

These are the clearest manifestations of Sleeplessness.

First, try to sleep a walk all night, and then after a long time before falling asleep. Used to fall asleep soon, walks an hour several times and then find it hard to sleep again.

Then there is some trouble in the nervous system somewhere in the brain, elsewhere, in the blood vessels, throughout the body, and the nerves.

There is also by the Cross of Jesus, How mother, Mary, the wife of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene, and with them was St. John Truly a sorrowful and loving band the only ones who in the hour of shame dared to show their personal sympathy with the Crucified. Only one man amongst them, but there were three women there. Women oftentimes surpass men in courage, and they did on this occasion. St. Thomas had once said, "Let us also go that we may die with Him." But he did not go. St. Peter had avowed that though he died with the Lord he would not deny him, but we do not find him at the foot of the cross. But the three Marys are there. It by the publication of the Home Circle Column we gain the friendship and esteem of the friends of our homes, we will have no fears of being forsaken in time of trouble.

To right it take Dr. Miles' Nervine.

Some other symptoms of nerve trouble are: Headaches, Backache, Worry, Fretfulness, Irritability, Melancholy, Lack of Ambition.

To alleviate distress which may lead to trouble, take Dr. R. V. Pierce's Nervine, Irritator, Insomniac, Insanity.

Nervine will give quick quiet and lasting relief as Dr. Miles' Nervine.

"My physician just told me I'll be well again in a week or two," said Mrs. C. H. Davis, of New York, "With all the medical advice I can get, I still don't feel better. One baby girl was sent away, and not that far off either. I am not the only one of us. I am getting tired of it all."

Dr. R. V. Pierce's Nervine.

We begin in giving it to him.

I dreamt I was in a shipwrecked boat, and I was the only survivor.

WORLD'S FAIR NOTES.

"Tell me all about the Fair," was the initial greeting to a member upon his return home after a tour days' visit to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition last week, and before he commenced to tell all he hesitated, then began with the story of his experiences in taking a trip to Paris by submarine boat and returning by airship, along the reproduction of the Galveston flood and the mysterious speculations of "Herculean" and the question:

But had he told that which dominated in his mind he would have certainly been about those massive, creamy white buildings which make a wonderfully magnificent architectural picture and which contain thousands of displays that are interesting and educational; and too the marvelous electrical display comes second as the most impressive attraction at the fair. These two attractions, the architectural and electrical, are the greatest features of the World's Fair. You can see them from the air until 10:30 p.m. for fifty cents.

Towering above every thing else on the Plaza of St. Louis the Festival Hall is the eye-center of the exposition. This great dome-like structure is for musical festivals and there every morning at 11:30 o'clock is given a recital on the large organ ever built in the world.

Mrs. Rorer, the professional cook of America, occupies the East and West pavilions, which are on either side of Festival Hall. A reception was given by Mrs. Rorer, Kentucky woman at the residence in honor of the Governor of Kentucky and the Kentucky Press Association.

On the following day, while several members of the Press Club were launching at the West pavilion, the waiters went on strike. Mrs. Rorer was in a helpless position for at least twenty minutes, after which the girls shamefully resumed their duties.

The Fair's greatest educator is indeed the reproduction of Jerusalem. With the Press party during their visit to the place was a man who had visited the real Holy City and he said the reproductions were excellent.

The city is 10,000 feet. It is surrounded by a wall, and at each principal entrance are competent dragoons, or guides, from Jerusalem, who meet parties and take them through the city. Most of the guides are Nazarenes. They are well educated in Biblical history and speak English fairly well. Some leading features are Church of the Holy Sepulchre built over the Place of Crucifixion. The Holy Rock, or rock where Abraham went to offer up Isaac. There is a street under the Dome within the Mosque of Omar, which is on the site of the Temple where Jesus taught. The Jew's Waiting Place, and Tower of David. There are numerous other features in the many streets. In the church of the Holy Sepulchre is the reproduction of Christ's tomb. At the prominent drivins of all denominations and from various cities will lecture frequently. This place should be seen by every person, it is very interesting.

The Filipino exhibit at the Philippine exhibit was a show at the rear. The woman is twenty-seven inches tall and the man is two inches taller. They sing and dance and are quite accomplished. The ignorants eat every day they can kill. The men do the cooking, while the women weave, make baskets and have a good time. This exhibit covers forty acres.

The Lone Star state is represented by a palace in the form of a five-pointed star. Unlike the situation of Cloverport and Tohinsport are three

GARTER SUPERSTITIONS.

Here are a few garter superstitions that still survive.
Gold garter buckles are "lucky" and silver ones the reverse.

The girl who wears her garters below the knee will early lose her beauty.

To put on the left garter before the right on dressing in the morning will bring bad luck.

The marriage of a bride who wears any but white garters on her wedding day will have an unhappy ending.

The luckiest colors for garters are white, blue and black. The wearer of yellow garters will lose a friend within a year.

The garter buckles in church the wearer's marriage will be happy, but if the accident happens at a dance it is a sign that the wearer's sweetheart is faithless to her.

Chinese Business.

A Chinaman can be trusted in a business transaction where a Japanese cannot. The foreign residents of the orient are held in contempt regard for the head of a Mongolian.

Chinaman undertakes a contract, he will carry out the terms of that contract though it impoverishes him. There is no trick he will not play to win his case where his will is not involved, but once let him give a word and you can count on it that he will die before that betray him.

The Japanese are crafty business men. So long as they see profits in sight they will hold to a contract, but if there is a chance of losing, Mr. Jap, in the majority of cases, will find some means to get under cover before the crash comes.

Pecculiar Auntie Which is Common Among the Germans.

The use of charms and amulets prevails among people of every rank and grade, educated or ignorant, refined or vicious. When a man declares, "I have no superstition," consider him a fool and in a few days he will state, "While I am not superstitious, yet I used say I always did believe," etc., demonstrating that he is about as superstitious as the average of mankind. THE USE OF CHARMES.

Pecculiar Auntie Which is Common Among the Germans.

The use of charms and amulets prevails among people of every rank and grade, educated or ignorant, refined or vicious. When a man declares, "I have no superstition," consider him a fool and in a few days he will state, "While I am not superstitious, yet I used say I always did believe," etc., demonstrating that he is about as superstitious as the average of mankind. Charms and amulets are not about the person, but are worn upon the body, collected in various forms, rings, bracelets, talismans, finger rings, amulets, etc.

Camping Out.

BY CHRISTINE THERMINE HERRICK.

Copyright, 1904, by Christine Therminie Herrick.

The fresh air fashion has ceased to be a fad. Everywhere people are learning the value of a life in the open air and are prizing for themselves what even a few weeks of roughing out doors will do. The complete change of habit aids the fresh air to get in its good work and it is not necessary for the tired traveler to take a long costly trip in order to make a total variety in the habits of daily life. Farmers' wives have found out that there is benefit to be derived from leaving home for a few days and camping down at some place a few miles from the farm. Busy city workers who cannot afford to take the time off their families to go to the country have discovered that a tent or a cabin within a short ride of town, near enough for the business men to go back and forth to work on their wheels, is not to be despised.

as a means of getting the change that every one should have in the course of the year.

Perhaps men have more of the native wood dweller in their composition than women, and they never seem to have much difficulty in adapting themselves to the lack of home conveniences and comforts during a camping out period. Possibly this is because they have less of the parvenu to do. Children, too, enjoy this sort of life and are never happier than when enduring some small privation that makes them feel that they are leading a truly wild existence.

The average woman does not take quite so kindly to the unconventional camp life—for obvious reasons. She is usually more a creature of habits than the man and she takes her pleasure in an orthodox fashion. Yet it is a good idea to be able to shake out of her accustomed round out in a while and even if she does not become so enthusiastic over camping out as her children, and husband she can hardly fail to get real benefit from it.

There are many ways in which the camp may be made comfortable for the seekers for health and change who cannot indulge themselves in the luxuries of those Adirondack campers who supply their rustic dwellings with brass beds and porcelain tubs.

Where Wives Are Cheap.

In Tartaria no father will surrender his daughter to a man unless he gives a quantity of hawks in return, and in certain parts of India no girl can marry until her father has been pacified by a present of rice and a few rupees.

Twenty-one is the regular price for a wife among the Mishkins, but a poor man has more than once succeeded in obtaining a bride on payment of one-pence.

At Uyoro any desirable but impudent suitor may purchase his wife on credit, but will not be allowed to enjoy her company until he has paid the usual forfeit.

Red seems to be the most popular of national colors. If flags may be used instead of banners, the United States national flags nineteen have red in them. The same cannot be said of any other color. The chief flags that are marked with red are those of the United States, England, France, Germany, Austria, Italy, Spain, Denmark, Belgium, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, Mexico, Chile, Portugal and Venezuela.

How It Happened.

Annoyed—“I’m sorry, Mrs. Martin. I saw your ‘Yours’ up and down. Martha—Yes, ma’am, but it was all an accident. I started to whisper something into Charlie’s ear at the same moment that he tried to whisper something into my ear, and that is how it happened. Charlie felt as bad about it as I did. I’m sure.”

Strongly Recommended.

Lady companion—a paper boy—Well, how soon can you come? Page (smiling)—At once, ma’am. Lady—But surely your present mistress won’t like that. Page (brightly)—Oh, yes, she will! She’ll be only too glad to get rid of me—London Punch.

If you wish to be held in esteem, you must associate only with those who are estimable.—Bruyere.

That sort of thing is not camping at all, in the real sense of the word, much as it may appeal to the lowers of the flesh pots. The day has gone by when a camp must of necessity be a tent. A tent has its advantages, but it also possesses drawbacks. In hot weather it is very hot, even although it cools quickly at night. In wet weather it is not always waterproof, and is chilly. Men and boys are usually satisfied with it, but a woman owns to a preference for some kind of a shanty or shack when she goes camping. Whether it be under canvas or beneath a more substantial roof, the main thing to make sure of is that it is light and durable and not unpleasant to look at. Stone houses are ugly as well as heavy and anything finer or more fragile is out of the question.

Happily a fair bed is easily achieved. A camp cot—two lengths of wood with a breadth of canvas between and folding legs beneath—makes a bed not to be despised, especially when a rug or quilt or comforter is laid upon it. Such a bed as this can be shifted from place to place, but the same result may be achieved with less bother of transportation by driving into the ground long posts, corresponding with the four corners of the bed, fastening strips from one of these to the other so as to form a hollow square and to these strips scurving stout canvas. If one is within reach of evergreens in abundance cross strips of wood may be fastened to the lengthwise strips of the frame and boughs or spruce or balsam or hemlock arranged on these for a matress. The old style of making a nest of boughs on the ground left much to be desired in wet weather, even with a ditch cut around the tent, some dampness was sure to make itself felt. Likewise crawling things found it very easy to get into the green matress.

The coverage for such a nest should be dark blankets—blankets are warmer and lighter than comforters,—and there should be enough of them. Cold nights are not unknown even in Summer and if one lies awake and shivers during the dark hours there is not much good won from the camping experience. Let no woman feel inferior in this respect, for she can be really comfortable sleeping on a rubber pillow. This may do for a foundation, but for genuine comfort she will need a pillow of feathers or down.

When a man camper wishes to wash he takes a plunge in the nearest body of water. A woman must plead for a wash basin. If she can afford herself the luxury of a rubber tub she is in great luck. Some sort of a rude wash stand should be contrived for her in the corner of her tent or of her cabin and there may be a rope put up or pegs on which she can hang the few clothes she takes with her in camping.

Therefore, unless the woman who goes camping has the love of Nature very strongly developed, or is deeply interested in some outdoor fad, she would do well to take with her some means of amusing herself. Let it be her fancy work or her basket making or her pet game. There should always be books and reading stand and with these and the needed work of the camp the days should not drag. When the camp is in a place accessible by good roads the bicycle will help to make the outing more delightful.

The Kiwi.

In New Zealand is found the kiwi, a strange bird of the ostrich family. Ostriches have two toes, but the kiwi has three toes; so also have the emu, cassowary, ostrich, and some South American ostriches. The kiwi, however, differs from the other struthionids in having four toes. Further, the kiwi cannot be said to be quite ostrich-like, for in size it is not larger than an ordinary barnyard fowl. It has a long neck, a large and muscular neck and a long, slender bill, with the distinguishing feature that the nostrils are placed very close to its tip. The legs are short, but the muscles on the thighs are well developed, and the feet are strong and powerful, with sharp claws. It is a bird devoid of trace of tail visible, while it is covered with long, narrow, hairlike feathers, and on the fore part of the head and sides of the face are straggling hairlike feathers.—Chicago News.

How We Made the Alps.

Any painter ever fixed on canvas vessels, distinct and bantering, on hands and hands, however, I can tell you. The most of the time the wall was a deafening erection of brown paper and apparently ingeniously arranged shelves, built up in rocklike fashion, covered with little green toy boxes and dotted here and there with bits of mirror glass and cardboard houses, which were the only contents of the room in the parlor of a cottage. “Do tell me what that is!” at last rose to my lips.

“That,” answered my hostess very slowly, “that is a work of my late ‘uncle’—the representative of the Alps! He was as close as a confidante to me. He was almost—” I often think of that man who never was abroad! and of his representation of the Alps: of the hours of poetic vision, of actual creation, perhaps from sheer strength of lung, which resulted in that quaint work of art. As close as he could imagine them!—Macmillan’s Magazine.

dried collars, knickers, rather than elaborate underwear, stout boots and a soft hat. “Frills” of any sort are out of place in a camp—unless it be one of the luxurious establishments to which I have already referred.

In the regular hunting camps where there are guides, these take charge of the cooking, and the women of the party do not have to trouble themselves with anything in the way of kitchen work. But there are many camps where the women do the housework and there must be provosts made for the cooking and eating. The best camp outfit, both for the stove and the table, is of the blue and white in plain colors. This is light and durable and not unpleasant to look at. Stone houses are ugly as well as heavy and anything finer or more fragile is out of the question.

Table linen, too, is better dispensed with as far as possible. If one cannot be happy without a tablecloth, it is
